Excitement in The Advocate's big prize race, which closes Saturday night, is intense, and the candidates and their friends are working like beavers to make their efforts count. Everywhere they scurry about—quickly adopting every advantage that will lead to success.

There are rumors of dark horses that are quite worthy of credence. Candidates have come down to the last day in a "neck-and-neck" race for the grand prizes—so close that it is impossible to predict to whom victory will fall.

Some candidates who did splendid work during the first part of the campaign have slackened in their efforts the last period. Others, who started late, have done unusually good the last few weeks. Conditions are such that a candidate with enough votes for a start would indeed be wanting in spirit if she did not go after the top prizes in a case that some one was lying down with the idea that it was all over and she had a prize within her grasp, and there was nothing to do but wait for the distribution of the prizes.

Some candidates far down on the list have seen their opportunity and taken advantage of it. "There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip," and likewise many a slip possible before the close. A contestant who lays down now, after making a good showing thus far, is going to be passed by some other candidate who has been busy during the very closing days. Many things may happen between now and Saturday night at 8 o'clock, and the only safe way to do is to be prepared by having enough votes.

Every facility will be offered candidates in getting their subscriptions and votes into the campaign department Saturday. In spite of the warnings that have been given, there is sure to be some candidates who will delay and we again warn them to have all votes and subscriptions in before 8 o'clock Saturday night. Read the closing details very carefully and be sure you fully understand them.

And now the stage is set, and everything in readiness for the finish. The end is in the hands of the contestants and their friends. Persons who have been watching the campaign with interest—who have friends in the campaign and would like to help them win an automobile—must do it now.

To candidates, let it be said that the last few hours are fraught with uncertainties. Work—fight—to the last ditch! And many fortune be with you!

JUDGES OF THE CAMPAIGN

The following well known gentlemen have consented to act as judges and make the final count in the Mt. Sterling Advocate's Prize Campaign, which closes at 8 o'clock Saturday night:

Mr. Claude Kilpatrick
Mt. Sterling National Bank
Mr. Cecil S. Greene
Traders National Bank
Mr. Jessie R. Hainline
Montgomery National Bank

Judges Make Count

The Campaign Manager made his last count for today's issue and the ballot box is now locked and sealed and the keys are in the hands of the judges. All votes deposited in the ballot box hereafter will be counted by the judges after the campaign is closed. As soon as possible after 8 o'clock Saturday night the judges will open the ballot box and commence the work of counting the votes. The result of their count will be announced as soon as completed. Experience teaches that it usually takes about two or three hours to make the count.

While it is not necessary for candidates to come to Mt. Sterling on the closing night, we will be glad to have as many of the contestants and their friends who can come to do so, as all will want to know the result of the race as soon as possible.

Don't Be Too Confident

You may be in the lead today, but some one may put in a little most effective race the last day of the campaign and beat you out. Don't let this happen—be a winner at all hazards. Keep up a vigorous campaign until the closing hour. Turn defeat into victory. You can do so if you put forth your best efforts.

If any of the contestants are not satisfied with the judges we have selected, we will allow any of the contestants who wish to do so, to appoint one representative to be present when the count is made. The judges will commence the work of counting the votes as soon as possible after 8 o'clock Saturday night. The votes will be counted on an adding machine and the results will be checked and rechecked so there is no chance for an error.

Important: Contestants, please note that the Prize Ballot Offer closes at noon Saturday and all other vote offers at 6 o'clock. Get your subscriptions in before noon to apply on the Prize Ballot Offer. Double Votes—6 P. M., Saturday

It seems as though almost all candidates took advantage of the big Triple Vote Offer which closed last night and this very fact keeps the contestants close in line and makes the outcome very much in doubt.

Now we come to the last week's vote offer and with the race so close the candidates who expect to win cannot afford to let up for a minute, for just one or two subscriptions may be the deciding factor in the final count.

Double Votes — just twice the schedule below—will be given on both old and new subscriptions TURNED IN BEFORE 6 P. M., ON NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT, July 30TH.

Between 6 and 8 o'clock Saturday night, the last two hours of the campaign, only the regular schedule will

Excellent Woman Dies

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, aged 71, wife of B. F. Allen, of near Spencer, died July 10th, 1921, of apoplexy. Aunt Bettie, as she was affectionately called, had been an invalid for over nine years, but ever wore a pleasant smile, for all who had the privilege of seeing and knowing her. Had been a devoted member of the Christian church for many years. Had been married for fifty years. Had no children of her own but at different times had mothered and reared orphan children, one, Miss Stella Rogers, a niece, who lived with her at the time of death. Besides her husband at home, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Patsy Watts, a brother, J. H. Gilmore, of Oklahoma, and a half sister, Mrs. Emma Allen, of Kansas. She was buried in the family cemetery. The Advocate joins the many friends in sympathy with the bereaved family.

The Imaginative Time

Mothers, did you ever stop to realize the importance of that period in your child's development when his little mind is free to wander over the hills of fancy and he is finding so much difficulty in linking up the real and the unreal? It is the opportunity time of life and every one of us to whom is entrusted the care and development of a little child needs to study and understand it in order that we may make the most of it.

All of us are dreamers of dreams, and it is well that it is so, for every worthwhile net that has been given to the world was first a dream in the mind of some person. Every book that was ever written, every picture painted, every field cultivated, was first just a flight of imaginative fancy. All of us go this far, but it is not enough to dream; we must do as well. The successful person is the one who thinks over his dream and organizes his thinking until finally it is no longer a dream, but a reality.

We grownups would give the gold of Midas (were it possible, if we might have developed in us the power of vision, the power to see life imaginatively. Yet our little tots (from three to six have this power to the nth degree, and instead of fostering and organizing it we do our best to stifle it as a trait not to be desired. The seed of genius lies in many of our children, and parents and teachers who do not understand, do their utmost to crush out the very thing which later they wish them to have.

"But," you say, "if I encourage this, will it not make my child untruthful? Already he juggles the truth in most alarming ways." As mothers and leaders of children, we must be able to distinguish between a flight of fancy and a deliberate intent to deceive. Fortunately for us the latter cases are very rare. If in doubt ask the child; if it is a flight of fancy he will tell you so.

What we need to do is to help the child see his vision clearly and then furnish him with some plastic material with which he can make his dreams come true. Fairy tales are excellent for the imaginative child. He is living in their world and they help explain for him that almost inexplicable thing called life. Free hand cutting, clay modeling and the sand table furnish material which will enable him not only to see the picture more clearly, but will also lend him to be a doer as well as a dreamer, both of which are necessary.

The imaginative period, the opportunity time, comes but once, so let us make the most of it.

A fast life is necessarily a short one. He who would live long must abandon hurry, quiet down and take time to breathe.

Give a girl a new engagement ring and she will have her hand up to her face fifty-nine times a minute.

ILLINOIS GIRL SETS "PERFECT" MARK

Miss Izora May Hanks, of Vienna, Ill., is the "perfect school girl." Starting at the age of six years, she this season graduated from high school at the age of seventeen, never absent nor tardy, and never having had a bad mark against her record. She ranked high in her graduation class.

100,000 Votes Free

Until 6 o'clock next Saturday night, July 30th, 100,000 Extra Votes will be given on each and every "Club of $15" worth of "New" subscriptions turned in for or by a candidate.

Only new subscriptions count on this offer. Send in subscriptions as fast as you receive them—you gain nothing by holding them until the last day.

Last Free Ballot Offer

Tea prize ballots, the first for 1,000,000 extra votes, the second for 950,000 extra votes and so on down, will be awarded to the ten candidates who turn in the greatest amount of BOTH OLD AND NEW subscriptions before 12 o'clock Next SATURDAY, JULY 30TH.

Remember, this offer closes at noon Saturday, so send in all possible subscriptions so they will reach the campaign manager before noon, if you expect them to apply on the prize ballot offer.

WARNING

- The campaign manager issues a warning that he will accept no checks for subscriptions (unless certified) on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 28th, 29th and 30th—the last three days of the campaign. If you take checks for subscriptions, have them made payable to yourself and convert into cash before making the final settlement.

Subscriptions By Mail

All subscriptions—NO MATTER WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hours of the various vote offers if you expect them to be applied on these last vote offers. Otherwise, their vote value will be determined by the offer in force at the time they are received.

Regarding Store Votes

All vote orders and the 10-vote coupons given on purchases at the various stores will be accepted right up until 8 o'clock Saturday night—under the following conditions:

Do Not Deposit Store Votes

Do not deposit store votes in the ballot box after 1 P. M., Thursday. Bring them to the Campaign manager after that day and hour and exchange for vote certificate before depositing in ballot box. This applies to both store vote orders and the 10-vote coupons given on purchases.

Last Important Details

We want every contestant to read the closing details very carefully, and if there is any point you do not understand, consult the campaign manager immediately. We should dislike to see any candidate lose votes and subscriptions because she failed to understand the closing details. So, read carefully, for there is bound to be a rush on the last day.

The Advocate's big Prize Campaign will close at 8 o'clock NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT, JULY 30TH. Subscriptions will be accepted from candidates and their friends who are inside of the office at that hour, but no one will be allowed to enter thereafter to turn in subscriptions and votes.

All Subscriptions—NO MATTER WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hour Saturday night. Otherwise they cannot be counted.

All reserve votes (Vote Ballots issued on subscriptions, club offers, etc.)—NO MATTER WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hour on Saturday night, or they cannot be counted by the judges.

Send back all reserve votes, so they will reach the campaign department before 8 P. M., July 30th. If you send them after 1 P. M., on Thursday, July 28th, they will be deposited in the ballot box to your credit and will only be counted by the judges after the campaign closes. If you are coming to Mt. Sterling on the closing day it is advisable to deposit the reserve votes in the ballot box yourself.

By reserve votes we mean the ballots which have been issued on subscriptions, club offers, etc., and ballot back to you. Send your ballot in enclosing bearing your name before depositing in the ballot box. Place about 25 ballots or less in each envelope so they will go through the slot in the ballot box.

Don't take any chance of the mail being delayed—it may cause you to lose a prize if you do. Mail in plenty of time so they will reach us before the closing hour of the campaign. All votes and subscriptions—no matter what time mailed—must reach us before the closing hour of the campaign in order to be counted.

Don't slack up now—from present indications it is going to be a neck-and-neck race right up until the closing hour and just a few subscriptions—possibly those you secure the last few days—may be the ones that will win the very prize you most desire.

Subscriptions will be accepted right up until the closing hour of the campaign.

Votes are positively not transferable and they will not be sold. They can only be secured on subscriptions and on store purchases. When a contestant drops out of the race, she loses all votes to her credit. Every ballot must bear the name of some candidate. Do not ask to have ballots issued in blank, for we will not do so. Scratched, torn or altered ballots will be promptly discarded.

Be sure to have the subscriptions in proper shape to hand into the campaign department. Have the name, address and amount of the subscription written plainly on the regular campaign receipt. If you have no receipt book, ask the campaign manager for them. And be sure you have your receipt filled out before you come to the office.

Prize ballots for all four periods will be given to the contestants at 6 P. M., July 30th, or if they are not present will be deposited into the ballot box in time to be counted in the final count.

Following is a complete list of the prizes which will be awarded to the successful candidates on Saturday, July 30th. Bordeaux Spray Stops Potato Blight Losses

Losses in the Kentucky potato crop through the attacks of late blights which annually reduce the yield of spuds on many farms may be stopped by spraying the crop with Bordeaux mixture, according to J. S. Gardner, extension specialist in vegetable gardening from the College of Agriculture. The disease is worse in some years than in others, but there are always loose spores of it which live through the winter in many ways and attack the potato crop when the proper kind of weather arrives. Hot, muggy days are favorable ones for attacks of blight.

The Bordeaux mixture spray may be prepared at home by combining copper sulphate, lime and water or it may be bought ready mixed. The sprayer may be a bucket pump or a barrel pump, the important thing being to get sufficient pressure to make a misty spray which should be driven with force enough to reach into the plant thoroughly covering it. On areas larger than four acres it is of advantage to have an engine-driven pump. Potato growers who have had losses by the attacks of blight may secure information as to the proper spray and the apparatus necessary to apply it by writing to the Experiment Station, Lexington.

Don't brag. If you are smart the people will soon discover the fact. You won't have to tell them.

Farm Buildings Plans Sent Out to Farmers

A number of suggestive farm building plans are being distributed by the farm engineering department of the College of Agriculture to farmers of the state who are interested in remodeling the buildings on their properties, according to an announcement by J. B. Kelley, head of the department. The list includes plans for general barns, dairy barns, tobacco barns, hog houses, poultry houses, machine sheds and sheep barns. Any of the plans may be obtained on request by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

MONEY WASTED—ADVERTISING

Once we heard words like the above caption. They came from a man that had passed his meridian—honest, hardworking, saving man, but one that had never advertised. This one requisite was missing in his makeup. Was he a business success? No! For he is today classed with the "moneyless man." There was another. He came here with like opportunities, with pluck and enterprise. He, in person and influence, was in every onward movement; he advertised, he was always at it; he worked and advertised and advertised and labored. He is not with the moneyless man today. He is not on the shelf. He is classed with those that "have." He advertised. Then there are others. They at one time advertised; they were active in season and out of season; they prospered, but they have quit and today have become slothful, business drags; they get the slow customers and business and instead of as it once was, a pleasure, is now burdensome and this party is just in business because he cannot get out of it. He is a "has been." We have mentioned these characters that our people may see the real photographs. Would you model after the one that did not advertise and became sour on the world as he sits there in the accumulation of dust and dirt, ornamented with streamers of spider webs, the man that never advertised? Would you be as the one who advertised and prospered and who quit a disgruntled old man, or would you be as the young man of thrift of getup and go, who counts his money by the thousands, who continues in prosperity and is happy with a family of his type? Say, which would you be, young man? We appeal to you, a man that advertised and keeps it up or the don'ts. To advertise and to push is the only way to success.

THE CAMPAIGN LIAR

He is easy to get acquainted with. He is the man to be avoided. Voters, make up your own minds, select the men for office that you would have do business for you, and vote as you decide. Your vote is your own; it is a sacred privilege; vote intelligently. Vote the secret ballot and turn your back on political meddlesome political liars. Every man has a right to become a candidate and we voters have the sacred privilege of voting according to our own way of thinking.

UNITED EFFORT WORKS WONDERS

This is well illustrated by what a few families in religious circles accomplished a few evenings ago. The good working women of the Catholic church, this city, had use for money in their church work. They organized; they went to work and the end was soon accomplished: they went beyond their mark, realizing more than they had expected, $100, from an ice cream. Think! Pennies make dimes and dimes make dollars!

Farm Values in Ky. Show Big Increase

Farm property in Kentucky increased in value in greater proportion than did farm values in the United States as a whole in the period 1910-1920, according to figures made public by the Census Bureau at Washington. All farm property in Kentucky in 1920 was valued at $1,511,901,077, as against $773,797,880 in 1910, the compilation shows, the increase being just a shade under 100 per cent, while the increase over the whole of the United States was 90.1 per cent.

The average value of all farm property, including land, buildings, implements, machinery and live stock of every Kentucky farm in 1920 was $5,587 against $2,950 in 1910. The average farm value for the entire United States was $12,085 for 1920, against $6,444 in 1910. The value of all farm property in the United States in 1920 was $77,955,989,073; against $40,991,440,000 in 1910.

Kentucky's farm lands in 1920 were valued at $1,050,762 against $484,464,617 in 1910; buildings, at $254,406,256 against $120,984,755; implements and machinery at $48,554,877 against $20,851,846 and livestock at $158,387,284 against $117,486,662.

Kentucky was twenty-sixth of all states in the Union in the matter of farm property value in 1920, which was the same position held in 1910.

Census figures also reveal that 11,399 of Kentucky's 270,626 farmers wear skirts instead of overalls. The percentage of female farm operators in the state is 4.2 of the total. Female farmers in Kentucky, incidentally, are just a fraction more numerous than in the United States as a whole, the percentage for the nation being 4.1. The female farmers in Kentucky manage 871,407 acres of the total of 21,612,772 acres tilled in the Commonwealth. A total of 10,081 female farmers own the farms they operate in Kentucky, while twenty-one are farm managers and 1,297 are farm tenants. Kentucky is one of ten states with more than 10,000 women farm operators.

Of the 179,327 farms operated in Kentucky a total of 116,613 farms owned by persons operating them are free of incumbrances, only 25.3 per cent of Kentucky farms being mortgaged. The percentage for the whole of the United States is 41.3. Few States have a better record than Kentucky.

The average farm mortgage debt in Kentucky is $1,889, against an average of $3,361 for the entire country.

"HUMORESQUE" IS FINE PICTURE, SPLENDIDLY ACTED (Chicago News)

Vera Gordon is a name worth remembering, for the owner thereof, comparatively unknown to the cinema, has impressed it indelibly upon the pages of time as truly representative of ardent mother love, a filial affection so intense that it is concerned with nought else but the happiness of her offspring. You will understand her inherent discovery of the musical genius of her youthful boy even though he manifests this talent by preferring the "feeble" (violin) to the toy cash register which his commercial father holds makes the most agreeable music. You will chuckle at her tolerant treatment of her half dozen or more children; you'll laugh heartily at the comic passages of her family rearing, and you'll weep copiously during the tender moments.

For such is the skill of Vera Gordon, and such is the intensity of "Humoresque" which all Chicago must see to witness fine acting and a rare picture.

But the excellence of the picture does not cease with Miss Gordon. Frank Borzage, in association with Frances Marion, who adopted Fannie Hurst's story to the screen, molded a human picture of life as it is known among old-fashioned Jewry in the Ghetto of New York. He pointed his camera right into the heart of the famous district and into the very hearts of the simple humanity dwelling there, bringing forth its industrial habits, the home life of its people, their happiness, and their heartaches. Seed Plot Will Insure High Yielding Potatoes Experiences of Kentucky potato growers together with experimental results indicate that the best means of producing and maintaining a high yielding strain of potatoes is to grow a seed plot from year to year to furnish the foundation for succeeding crops, according to A. J. Olney, potato specialist from the College of Agriculture. During the latter part of July and the first part of August has been found to be the best period in which to plant this plot for next year's seed, according to the specialist. Irish Cobbler and Early Ohio are perhaps the best early varieties for Kentucky while Bull Moose, Rural Russett, Carman No. 3 and Green Mountain have been found to be the best late varieties. The growing of the seed plot is the more important since experience has shown that it is seldom practical to hold tubers from the first crop potatoes for seed.

Merely planting a seed plot will not insure high yielding strains of potatoes alone. Good seed, which has been treated with corrosive sublimate and properly cut together with proper cultivation and spraying are also necessary for the success of the project.

Care of the seed plot is outlined as follows by Mr. Olney:

"As soon as the potatoes are well above ground all plants should be removed which are stunted and show signs of the disease known as mosaic or curly dwarf. This disease causes young plants to appear dwarfed and the leaves to curl downward and be much twisted. They also have an uneven yellow and green color. The disease causes the plants which it attacks, to produce small, worthless tubers and is the principal cause of varieties "running out." The plants should be gone over again about two times before flowering in order to remove all diseased ones. At flowering time all plants should be removed which show a different flower color from that of the variety as these are mixtures. Especial care should be taken to make an application of nicotine sulphate at the earliest appearance of aphid or leaf hoppers, as these are difficult to control when they have become established.

"After the last undesirable plants have been removed all plants which appear especially healthy and vigorous should be marked. This should be done before danger of frost. Soon after the vines have been killed the marked hills may be dug. These will furnish seed stock for the seed plot to be planted the following July or August. The remainder of the crop from the seed plot should be saved for seed for the early field crop the following spring.

B. TABOR INJURED

B. Tabor, well known and prominent merchant of Rothwell, was badly hurt at the ice plant in this city yesterday. Mr. Tabor had driven over in his truck for a load of ice and was assisting the men to load it into his car when the ice hooks slipped in some manner, and striking Mr. Tabor with full force in the eye, cutting a deep gash. It is feared that the sight in the injured eye will be lost.

Got Something You Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

These things are put in the attic, or stored away in the barn, or left lying about, getting of less and less value each year.

WHY NOT SELL THEM?

Somebody wants those very things which have become of no use to you. Why not try to find that somebody by putting a want advertisement in THIS NEWSPAPER?

TABB THEATRE

Norma Talmadge in "She Loves and Lies"

Norma Talmadge, famed beauty of the screen, is coming to the Tabb theatre Friday in her latest Select special, "She Loves and Lies," a comedy drama founded on Wilkie Collins' story of the same name.

In this play Miss Talmadge portrays two sides of the well-known eternal triangle, being her own rival for the affections of her husband. Miss Talmadge as Marie Callender finds herself wed to a certain Mr. Lismore, whom she marries in a philanthropic mood, to help him tide over some financial worries. It is purely a marriage of convenience, but as time passes Marie finds the "marriage of convenience" extremely dull; whereupon she searches for a method of winning her husband's love. The plan she eventually hits upon is unique to say the least. Realizing that she cannot flirt with him at home under the circumstances she goes elsewhere, becomes someone else and sets out to win him.

Greenwich Village, the celebrated habitat of the folks whom Ivin S. Cobb has nicknamed the "Bohemians" is the site of much of the action in the play.

Every man knows right from wrong, but not until he gets found out.

"Yes

Since
I Got
Fordson"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

"SPIRIT GRAIN" FOUNDED HOMES

Growing Corn Made Fixed Habitations Necessary for Erstwhile Roaming Indians

Corn, or Indian Maize, is credited by students of Indian legends with being responsible for the first American homes, and also for woman's first important economic contribution to society in North America.

Fixed places of habitation near the fields where the "Spirit Grain" was planted and cared for were necessary, and to these primitive homes the hunters returned from their quest of game. It was here that the ripened grain was stored to be dispensed for the family needs and in hospitality during the winter months, and the erstwhile roving Indians thus became homemakers.

Women planted, cared for and gathered the grain. This labor was not compulsory, but was assumed as a privilege and as a rightful share of responsibility to offset the continuous labor of men in providing meats, and skins for clothing by the chase. It was also the privilege and duty of Indian women to prepare corn for food in palatable and nourishing forms. Hominy and Succotash are Indian dishes, as are many of the preparations of corn meal in use today.

To these primitive people, nourishment was the first consideration and the strongest possible recommendation of the value of corn, the nation's most economical food, is that the "traveling" ration of the Iroquois, carried on hunting expeditions and by war parties, consisted of parched corn and maple sugar pounded and sifted fine. A quarter of a pound of this sugared meal diluted in a pint of water was a meal, and served to maintain the bodily vigor.—Tom Chivington for Corn Bulletin.

Dr. M. C. McKee, of Danville, W. Va., formerly of this city, who has been quite ill for the past several weeks, suffering from an infection received while operating on a patient, is reported to be slowly improving. - Department of Agriculture at Washington has a new and wonderful separator. Although it has all the general lines of all that is new in milk separators—it is not that kind of a machine at all. Instead it deals only with soil—separating all liquids from soil for analyzing. The machine has a maximum speed of 17,500 revolutions per minute. So if any of the soil from your farm is sent to the department for analysis, know that it will be "ground" here.

Boys and girls who are members of the Jefferson County Jersey Calf Club have started on their work of developing herds of registered Jersey cattle as their club projects, according to a report by E. M. Prewitt, dairy extension specialist from the College of Agriculture. Bred heifers were recently purchased in Christian county for the ten members of the club who will develop the animals as foundations for future herds. The club was organized by County Agent F. E. Merriman and Assistant County Agent H. S. Anderson.

Swine feeding problems are to receive special attention from Breathitt county farmers during the coming months, according to County Agent L. F. Morgan, who is arranging a number of demonstrations. Grady Sellards, swine extension specialist from the College of Agriculture, will assist with the work.

A new circular outlining the swine-fattening project for junior agricultural club members has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and is being distributed to interested boys and girls who are raising pigs as their club project during the summer. The new publication discusses the subject of swine fattening from the selection of the pig to the marketing of the animal and gives suggestions on care, management and feeding which are designed to interest youngsters of the state in pig raising. The circular is No. 103 and may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

The pullet sales are a part of the general plan worked out by those conducting the standardization campaign to make it possible for all the farmers in the various counties to obtain hatching eggs from the breed being used to standardize the county flocks. Banks and other persons co-operating in the movement furnished money for the purchase of hatching eggs, the farmers who received them agreeing to return one pullet for each setting of eggs. The money from the pullet sales will be returned to the banks who bought the eggs for distribution. Pullets brought in by the farmers will be culled and graded by specialists from the poultry department of the College of Agriculture and sold either as "firsts" or as "seconds." The sales offer an opportunity for farmers to obtain purebred pullets at reasonable prices and are therefore expected to aid in increasing the number of purebred hens on Kentucky farms, Mr. Martin said. The sales will be held in the various county seats.

The future of the two years which Mr. James especially praised were the development of eight full time county health departments, the establishment of a school of public health in connection with the University of Louisville, the recognition by the state of its responsibility in the relief of trachoma and the organization of a State Bureau for the elimination of the disease, the inauguration of a course in physical education for the common schools, and the purchase of a modern office building in Louisville as a home for all the activities of the State Board of Health.

BANK PAYS RENTAL OF AN ACORN A YEAR

The transfer of title to the bank property at 22 and 24 South Third street, Philadelphia, from the Citizens' bank to the State bank of Philadelphia, brought to light the fact that ownership of this property is forever subject to the payment of one acorn per annum to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The acorn clause was embodied in the earliest deeds to the northern portion known as 22 South Third St., and was cited in the deed dated on April 7, 1836, whereby title passed from Clause Amable Brazier to the Mechanics' bank of Philadelphia, says an exchange. The full clause is: Subject to a certain irredeemable rent of one acorn per annum forever, payable on demand to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

PREPAREDNESS

A carpenter was called as a witness of a trial for assault and counsel asked him what distance he was from the parties when he saw the prisoner strike the prosecutor. "Just four feet five inches and a half," he retorted promptly. "Pray, tell me," said the counsel, "how is it possible you can be so very exact as to the distance?" "Why, to tell you the truth," replied the man, "I thought perhaps some fool might ask me, so I measured it."—Tit-Bits.

BACK FROM THE FIGHT —

A Lesson From Nature

There was a time when it was considered worth while to be decently thoughtful of other people—decently courteous to individuals we knew as well as to individuals in the mass that we didn't know.

Today, the fashion appears to be careless of everybody else's feelings, but our own and indignant of others who do not treat us as we refuse to treat them. Exhibitions of selfishness are common and "get there" regardless of the other fellow, by force if necessary, is the rule, especially among the young. One sex is as bad as the other, with exceptions of course.

In certain parts there is a wild bee, with a wild Latin name which we won't try to repeat, but which is familiar as the "bramble bee." After the farmer has sheared off the heads of brambles along comes the velvety "bramble" bee. She picks a likely stalk, digs out the pith down to the first knot, which stops her progress. Then she fills this tube clear to the top with cells, one at a time, placing a little honey in each cell and depositing an egg with the honey.

The egg in the cell at the bottom is laid first and you'd expect it to hatch first. But the only way out to the free air is through all the other cells. If the baby bee busts through shield of course kill all the unhatched bees. So the amateur naturalist figures that nature reverses herself in this case, hatching the last bee laid first, and the first bee laid last.

Wrong! The first egg laid hatches first. The baby bee down there at the bottom of the tube at once attacks the wax wall above her and bores a hole through it to the cell overhead. Instantly she sees her baby sister or brother lying still and asleep in its cocoon. Does she brutally tear through that cocoon in a wild, ruthless dash for the sunlight above?

She does not, my son! She just calmly returns to her own cell, which is dark and without food, and stays there hours, sometimes a whole day, until she hears her sister moving about above. Then she joins the other and they bore through to the next cell. If that cocoon is still unhatched they wait again. And so on to the top.

Here is a lesson in courtesy from Mother Nature herself. Boys and girls, nature is the most truthful teacher in the world. Don't forget that.

Where You Got That Awful Dream!

Do you ever give any thought, Mr. and Mrs. Reader, to your subconscious mind? In other words, the other things your brain is working on without your conscious knowledge, while it is at the same time working on those things you know of, that you are full alive to.

The scientists have developed a whole shelf full of hooks on this subject during the last ten or fifteen years, mostly as a result of close observation of picked human individuals, great numbers of them. And these observations in all cases have been card-indexed as you would card-index a hundred thousand books in a public library. The result is that a great deal of interesting information has been obtained on sub-consciousness, much of it valuable to the medical man in his task of healing sick mankind.

There are few of us who have not experienced "night-terrors" sometime between babyhood and old age. Night terrors and nightmares are the action of the subconscious mind, and one of the writers, a Dr. Bowers, informs us that they date back thousands and thousands of years through our ancestors to the days of the "flying lizard" and other giant horrors that devastated early humanity.

Then there is the "gravily fall" as the scientists call it—the dream we all have had of falling great distances. It is a heritage of the age when our far distant forefathers lived in tree-tops to escape the dreadful animals that preyed upon them. They were always in danger of falling, and always in terror of it, and their danger has descended to us in the sub-conscious mind and only comes forth in dreams.

But when you slip into the pantry and devour the wife's last piece of lemon pie, you can't blame that on the sub-conscious mind.
